NAVY CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIRS.

Special Reports of National Banks.

POSTOFFICE DECISION

Additional Troubles Brewing in Spain.

THE MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.
WASHINGTON, November 25, 1872.

Navy Construction and Repairs.

The $3,500,000 appropriated by Congress for construction and repairs to the navy will be exhausted in about a month. The Secretary of the Navy, in furnishing timber and other material, as well as additional workmen, in order to prepare the navy for war, has not been compelled to draw on the other appropriations for this department. He has simply spent the money appropriated for construction and repairs for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874, seven months before the expiration of that year. This leaves Congress at its next session to provide additional appropriations to keep up the necessary repairs in this branch of the service during the present fiscal year.

National Banks' Special Reports.

The special reports of the national banks showing their condition on October 13th and November 1st, 1873, are all in. Early during the panic their resources and liabilities were far below their usual standard. Most of them had run short in their legal reserve, and were issuing it contrary to law. Although their deposits had diminished to insignificant amounts, the last statements received show a gradual increase in New York from $5,000,000 to $30,000,000, with a large additional increase daily.

Bids for Building a Sloop of War.

Bids were opened at the War Department yesterday for building the fourth and last sloop of war ordered by Congress last session. There were but few bidders, and consisted of those who bid for the other ships. The awards will be made very soon.

Claims Commission.

The United States and Mexican Claims Commission are settling claims with considerable rapidity, with a view to bringing in a report to Congress before its adjournment.

The Boiler Explosion Tests.

Gen. D. D. Smith, the Supervising Inspector General of Steamboats, has returned from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was supervising the steam boiler explosion tests, which were made last week. He states that the experiments made were satisfactory in every respect, both to himself and the members of the local board. No more of these tests will be made until after the return of warm weather, but it is proposed to experiment, to some extent, with valves and gauges, which can be done in-doors.

In Favor of Taking Cuba.

An official of the Pension Bureau, Interior Department, who has just returned from Knoxville, Tenn., states that the people of that State, generally, are in favor of taking Cuba by force of arms; and that, if war should be declared against Spain, a regiment of men could be raised in Knoxville alone in a very brief space of time.

Money Orders.

The question of increasing the amount allowable to be transmitted by money orders from $50 (the present limit) upward, is not looked upon in a favorable light by the Superintendent of the Money Order Department, and it is said the Postmaster General deems such a step impolitic. Dr. McDonald, the Superintendent, states that it would be contrary to the design of the money order system, which is to facilitate the transmission of small amounts, and thus keep money out of the mails. A difficulty would arise, it is claimed, should the proposition be adopted among the minor postoffices, where postmasters not having much money on hand would be unable to meet the payment of an order calling for a large amount, thus proving an annoyance instead of a convenience and benefit to the holder. The subject, however, will be broached in Congress, independent of its endorsement by the Department.

Additional Troubles Brewing in Spain.

The first intimation yesterday of a probable change of the administration in Spain, with Serrano as dictator, came through British official sources. To-day there is a story from another quarter that the Castelar Government is to be overthrown by a combination of ruling Spaniards. The plan is said to include the establishment of Marshal Serrano as regent for young Duke Alfonzo. Our Government has no official advices on the subject, nor does it consider these reports trustworthy.

Postoffice Decision.

Several postmasters being under the impression that a letter not originally prepaid in full could not be returned to the writer in case of non-delivery, though bearing a positive request for immediate return, Hon. Judge Spencer, Assistant Attorney for the Postoffice Department, decides that the 151st section of the Postal Laws requires the forwarding to its destination of any letter package on which at least full rate of postage has been paid as required by law, and that the request to return to the writer is, therefore, included in the contract, for in case of non-delivery, the writer's residence or office is the destination.

Congressional Matters.

Members of Congress now in the city, state that there has been no effort made to unite the different sections upon any concerted plan of action relative to financial measures. Some of those who are here state that they have projects of their own drawn up, but will not disclose them until it is ascertained what the leaders in the present financial system have to offer. Many of the Congressmen assert that Speaker Blaine has not consulted them personally, or by letter, nor in any way signified his intentions concerning the House Committees. The indications are that all the important legislation affecting the country will be gradually developed without coming before the House, backed up by strong and united influence as heretofore.

DIAMOND.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, November 25, 1873.

Report of the Comptroller of the Currency.

The forthcoming report of the Comptroller of the Currency will contain the following on the subject of "Interest on deposits and certification of checks:" "In my last annual report I referred briefly to the evils resulting from the payment of interest upon deposits, and my predecessors have frequently referred more at length to the same subject. The difficulty has been that the proposed legislation by Congress upon this subject would apply only to national banks. The effect of such legislation would be to bring State banks and savings banks organized by the authority of the different States in direct competition with the national banks in securing accounts of correspondents and dealers. The national banks will be desirous of retaining their business, and the more unscrupulous would not hesitate to evade the law by offering to make collections throughout the country free of charge, to buy and sell stocks without commission, and to rediscount paper at low rates. The proposed action of the Clearing House in the city of New York, if adopted by the Clearing Houses of the principal cities of the Union, would do more to prevent the payment of interest on deposits than any Congressional enactment. But the evils resulting from the payment of interest upon deposits are by no means confined to city banks. It may be safely said that this system, which prevails in almost every city and village of the Union, has done more than any other to demoralize the business of banking. State banks, private bankers, and associations under the guise of savings banks, everywhere offer rates of interest upon deposits which cannot safely be paid by those engaged in legitimate business. The national banks, desirous of retaining the business of their dealers, also make similar offers, and the result is not only an increase of the rates of interest paid by business men, but, as a consequence, investments in unsecured loans, bringing ultimate loss, both upon the shareholders of the banks and depositors. The kind of legislation needed is that which shall apply to all banks and bankers alike, whether organized under the national currency act or otherwise. A law prohibiting the payment of interest on deposits by the national banks will have little effect unless followed by similar legislation under the authority of the different States, and there is little hope that such legislation can be obtained. The national currency act, which was passed during the war, provided for a tax of one-half of one per cent. upon all deposits, and subsequent internal revenue legislation extended this tax to all deposits made with State banks and individual banks. This was essentially a war tax, and should, in my judgment, be repealed with other similar internal revenue taxations, and I recommend, if legislation is proposed on this subject, that the law be so amended as to repeal this tax so far as it applies to demand deposits, and that an increase in the rate of taxation be imposed uniformly upon all deposits which, either directly or indirectly, are placed with banks or bankers with the offer or expectation of receiving interest. Such legislation, if rigidly enforced, will have the effect not only to reduce the rate of interest throughout the country, but will at the same time prevent the illegitimate organization of savings banks, the organization of which should be allowed upon condition that the savings of the people shall be carefully and prudently invested, and the interest arising therefrom, after deducting reasonable expenses, distributed from time to time to the depositors, and to no other persons whatsoever.

"The act of March 3, 1869, authorizes the appointment of a receiver if any officer, clerk or agent of any national bank shall certify any check drawn upon said bank, unless the person or company drawing said check shall have on deposit in said bank, at the time said check is presented, an amount of money equal to the amount specified in such check. Receivers have been appointed for the National Bank of the Commonwealth of New York and the New Orleans Banking Association during the past year for violations of this act, and it is the intention of the Comptroller hereafter to rigidly enforce this act, whenever he is satisfied of such violation."

The Comptroller of the Currency reports the recommendation in last year's report for the repeal of section 6 of the act of July, 1870, which provided that after the whole fifty-four million dollars of circulation shall have been distributed, twenty-five millions additional shall be withdrawn from the banking associations and organizations in States having an excess, and distributed among States having less than their proportion. Under this section that amount would be withdrawn from New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, and the Comptroller also recommends the authorization of twenty-five millions more currency to be distributed among the States which are deficient, namely, those of the South and West. He is of opinion that it would require from three to five years to distribute this additional amount.

First National Bank.

In the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, to-day, an order was passed authorizing the receiver of the First National Bank of Washington to sign a proposition making E. A. Robbins trustee, with the consent of the creditors, as heretofore submitted by Jay Cooke & Co., unless good cause to the contrary be shown by the proper parties by next Tuesday. The application was made on a sworn petition of the receiver and by direction of the Comptroller of the Currency, after consultation with the Secretary and Solicitor of the Treasury. The matter rests by law in the direction of the receiver, and the Comptroller's order is deemed to be final.

Order to Army Disbursing Officers.

The War Department has issued a general order requiring all disbursing officers, so far as practicable, to keep the bulk of all public funds advanced to them in independent treasury offices, and limit deposits in local depository banks to such amounts only as may be absolutely necessary for small local payments.

The President's Message.

The President's message will not be printed in advance of its transmission to Congress. The report of the Secretary of the Treasury will be printed, but not distributed, before the message shall be sent to Congress.

Republican Congressional Caucus.

A Republican Congressional caucus will be held in the hall of the House of Representatives on Saturday evening next, for the selection of candidates to be voted for on Monday in the organization of the House.

Legal Tenders Outstanding.

The outstanding legal tenders amount to $365,036,091.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, November 25, 1873.

Tweed in the Tombs.

Tweed remains in the Tombs. Complaining of the dampness and stench of the cell in which he was first placed, he was removed to a cell in the second tier, in what is called the "new prison." He only receives his immediate relatives and counsel. Yesterday over one million dollars' worth of his property was transferred and consisted entirely of real estate in New York.

A Mexican Outrage.

Two Catholic priests, American citizens, who were expelled from the City of Mexico at the point of the bayonet by the Mexican authorities, have engaged a prominent lawyer here, who has corresponded with the Secretary of State, demanding that reparation be forthwith accorded his clients for the outrage perpetrated by the Mexican Government, and steps will at once be taken to lay the matter before Congress.

The Clearing House Meeting.

The Post says of to-day's action of the Clearing House: "The results of the meeting were the defeat of the old committee of nine and of the attempt to make the Clearing House a central power, having legislative functions. It is now left with each bank to manage its own business, and to abide by the results of such management."

Bank of the Commonwealth.

The suspended Bank of the Commonwealth will pay a dividend to depositors of thirty per cent. in December.

The Ingersoll Trial.

The testimony to-day in the Ingersoll trial was rather conflicting. The case is still on trial.

RAILROADS.

Gilman, Clinton & Springfield.

CHICAGO, November 25.—At Bloomington, Ill., this morning, in the McLean County Court, Judge Tipton, before whom an argument was made some weeks since for the appointment of a receiver for the Gilman, Clinton & Springfield Railroad for alleged Credit Mobilier transactions on the part of its officers, granted the motion, and the road goes into the hands of a receiver at once.

Utah Southern.

SALT LAKE, November 25.—There was a grand celebration to-day on the completion of the Utah Southern railroad to Brovo.

Memphis, Carthage & Northwestern.

OSWEGO, KAS., November 25.—Proceedings to enjoin the payment of $80,000 Oswego town ship bonds, issued to the Memphis, Carthage & Northwestern Railroad have been commenced in the Labelle County District Court. The bonds were fraudulently obtained, and efforts are being made to sell them.

Missouri Pacific.

ST. LOUIS, November 25.—Judge Dillon, of the United States Circuit Court, to-day made perpetual the temporary injunction granted at Davenport last summer, enjoining Gov. Woodson from advertising for sale the Missouri Pacific Railroad to satisfy a State lien of eight million dollars, whereupon the defendants applied to the United States Supreme Court.

ALBANY.

Cashier Phelps' Defalcation.

ALBANY, November 25.—An official examination shows the State Treasury defalcation, through Cashier Phelps, to be $331,772, $200,000 of which was stolen in August last, and the remainder in September. The irregularities in the office were not of a nature to warrant the removal of the Treasurer.

LATEST OIL NEWS.

Great Strike in Butler County—Additional Impetus to "Fourth Sand" Developments—Operations at Modoc, Petrolia and Fairview—Petroleum Productions in Western Pennsylvania.

A special dispatch to the Oil City Derrick from Petrolia, November 24th, says:—Jennings well No. 19, on the Dougherty farm, between Petrolia and Fairview, reached a coarser streak of "fourth sand" on Saturday afternoon, and from its enormous flow was not long in convincing all beholders that it was the biggest strike ever made in Butler county, or in any part of the Oil Regions since 1864. The first twenty-four hours it actually produced twenty-five hundred barrels: as measured by the pipe-line that moved the oil, filling seven two hundred and fifty barrel tanks and keeping a force pump constantly employed. On Monday this immense yield had fallen off greatly, and the product will certainly not exceed fifteen hundred barrels. The tools penetrated about two feet into the "fourth sand," which is much coarser than any heretofore found. Hundreds of excited people visited the well on Sunday, and many were heard to remark that Petrolia has the boss geyser, leaving Millerstown and Modoc completely in the shade. Dr. Jennings, of Queenstown, near Brady's Bend, who is a well known operator in this district, is the owner of this vast contribution to the over-production of fifty-cent petroleum.

Tack & Moorhead's new well on the Wilson farm, adjoining Petrolia, is flowing a hundred and fifty barrels from the "fourth sand." It has just touched the coarser rock, with every indication of an improvement on its present figure.

These successes have given additional impetus to "fourth sand" developments in this quarter, and numerous owners of small wells seem determined to venture further toward China with the least delay possible.

The Modoc District.

The Akin well, struck on Sunday, is flowing about five hundred barrels. It is owned by H. S. Akins and Risley & Hawthorn, of Modoc, and David Criswell, of Oil City.

Captain Wolfe has a new well on the Morrow farm, estimated at over six hundred barrels.

Captain Jack well No. 2 has reached the sand and is flowing liberally.

Taylor & Satterfield's new well on the Brown heirs' property is flowing over three hundred barrels. It was struck on Friday.

Several other new strikes may be heard from at any moment in the neighborhood.

THE Titusville Courier says:—During the year 1873, without any change in the present daily rate up to the close of next December, there will have been produced enough petroleum in Western Pennsylvania to fill a canal 25 feet wide at the top, 12 feet at the bottom, and 7 feet deep, and 70 miles long. But a 1,500 barrel well was struck in the fourth sand, near Petrolia, yesterday, as well as two or three others reported, whose figures we did not get; and, as was said, "it was not a very good day either." If, however, the striking of fourth sand wells is to continue, producers may as well dig channels, fill them with crude petroleum, and start into the canal business during the winter. Crude oil will not freeze, and if smoking is prohibited a good floating business may be carried on in midwinter.

ARITHMETICAL conundrum: Which is more profitable for producers, thirty thousand barrels of oil at fifty cents, or twenty thousand at three dollars. Operators down the river might find it instructive to study this interesting problem.—Oil City Derrick.

THE well-known coal firm of McElroy & Boulton, of Oil City, has two large wells at Modoc, one of them a new strike, yielding several hundred barrels of the unctuous fluid.

THE Pennsylvania Transportation Company is rapidly completing its new line of two-inch pipe between Oil City and Titusville, having reached Rouseville Monday.

Prospect of a Peaceful Solution of the Difficulties.

WASHINGTON, November 25.—The Cabinet was in session only about two hours to-day. All the members were present except Secretary Robeson, who is in Philadelphia in connection with the naval preparations. The Spanish question was debated, but no additional facts were presented by the Secretary of State, nor was any new action taken relative to the subject. This Government will act toward Spain as toward all other countries in cases of controversy, and await, with proper respect, replies to our complaints. There is, however, anxiety expressed for intelligence from Spain of a decisive character, in order that Congress may, in the President's message, be made acquainted with the facts. There are indications that dispatches were received to-night by both Secretary Fish and Admiral Polo, the Spanish Minister, from Madrid, of a character which gives more than heretofore a promise of the peaceful solution of the present complications. These gentlemen were in private conference for several hours to night at the residence of Mr. Fish, comparing dispatches and discussing generally the situation of affairs. It was remarked to-night, by a gentleman prominently connected with this Government, that things look far more hopeful now than ever.

Judge Advocate of the Trial at Santiago de Cuba.

NEW YORK, November 25.—It appears that Lieutenant Commander Antran, who commanded the Spanish war steamer Razan at Aspinwall last spring when Commander Reed, of the United States navy, escorted the Virginius out of that harbor, was Judge Advocate at the recent summary trial and condemnation to death of the crew and passengers of the Virginius at Santiago de Cuba.

Naval Preparations.

WASHINGTON, November 25.—Secretary Robeson left Washington last night for Philadelphia, on business connected with the fitting out of vessels. It is said at the Navy Department, that instead of orders being issued for a suspension of work, the preparation of vessels is being hurried forward.

FORTRESS MONROE, November 25.—The United States steamer Ossipee and the monitor Mahopac sailed this morning for Key West.

WASHINGTON, November 25.—The Construction Bureau of the Navy Department says if work at any of the navy yards has been suspended, it is not because of orders from Washington. It was only to-day that orders were sent from the Bureau to make some additional repairs on the Colorado at New York. The Roanoke is not intended for the North Atlantic squadron, but for the month of the harbor, and as for the Dictator, there was very little work remaining to be done to her.

NEW YORK, November 25.—2,500 men were paid at the navy yard to-day, most of whom have been employed since the Virginius outrage.

The Spanish iron-clad Arapiles has not left the yard, but was painted to-day, and the last work upon her in the dry dock will be done to-morrow. Work in the yard was going on as usual this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, November 25.—Orders were received at the Washington navy yard this morning to fit out the Shawmut for sea with all possible despatch. All the men that can be employed to advantage will be put to work both night and day. The Fortune was launched this morning, and will be ready for sea in a few days. She will carry two thirty pound rifled guns in addition to her torpedo attachment.

PHILADELPHIA, November 25.—So far as the Philadelphia navy yard is concerned, no orders have been received for the suspension of work. On the contrary, the work in hand is not only being pushed to completion, but fresh orders have been received.

To-day Admiral Porter made a tour of inspection among the vessels at the yard, and a dispatch was received ordering the dispatch boat Pinta to proceed immediately to sea.

A Note to the United States.

MADRID, November 24.—The Cabinet yesterday considered a note to be sent to the Government of the United States.

The Spanish Government Opposed to Arbitration.

It is denied that the Spanish Government is disposed to submit the Virginius question to the Emperor of Germany for arbitration.

A Havana Journal on the Situation.

HAVANA, November 25.—The Diario de la Marina has an editorial to-day, of which the following is an extract: "The Washington Government knows to-day, and the United States Congress will soon know, the justice with which the Spanish authorities have acted. They will take care of the national honor without suffering themselves to be influenced by the cries of the masses, who know not what these Cuban patriots are. For from our minds be the feeling of arrogance; further still the feeling of fear from our breasts. We neither seek nor shun peril. If the Americans oblige us to fight, fight we will. If the mother country can aid us, we will thank her, but if we must contend alone, there are enough Spaniards in Cuba to keep our banner safe. We will sell very dearly that which was once the most brilliant flower of the crown of Castile."

Funeral of Count San Fernanda.

The funeral of Count San Fernanda took place to-day. The murderer committed suicide in prison last night by taking poison.

British Press Comments.

LONDON, November 26—4:30 A. M.—The Times this morning speaks hopefully of the pacific solution of the Virginius question.

The Daily News says the rumored ultimatum of the United States would appear to be equivalent to a declaration of war.

The Spanish Minister Interviewed.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says: Admiral Polo, the Spanish Minister, who has hitherto maintained a strict reserve on the subject of the Virginius imbroglio, accorded to your correspondent an interview at a late hour this evening. The Admiral expressed his opinions fully and frankly on the grave complications which threaten to involve this country in a war with Spain, as he is evidently desirous of placing before the American people what be considers the real facts in the case of the Virginius, knowing full that when the question of peace or war comes to be decided upon, our Congress and Government will be led by public opinion.

Your correspondent opened the conversation by remarking that it was the accepted belief we were on the verge of war with Spain.

Admiral Polo replied: "Yes; war has stared me in the face from the newspaper prints for the last fortnight or so, and I suppose there is a great deal of talk about the war; but I doubt very much whether those who are clamoring for it represent the real sentiments of the American people at large. There is certainly no occasion, not even a pretext for war, except it be to find employment for the many idle people about New York. It is said they must be provided for, and therefore war would be a good thing. Perhaps it would, but I think it is a queer way of solving the labor problem."

Your correspondent here queried whether the insult done to the American flag was not a good pretext for war.

Admiral Polo said—"There has been no insult done or intended to the American flag, because the Virginius was no more entitled to it than to the flag of Venezuela, and perhaps not quiet as much. I ask you, in the name of fairness, shall the great flag of this country serve as a cover for the lawless acts of a set of adventurers who, except as a temporary expedient, care no more for it than for a mere rag? When the facts of the whole career of the Virginius will be had before the American people they will look at the case in a different aspect. The Virginius has been engaged for three years in a lawless pursuit. During all that time she has not been once in an American port. There is ample proof that she was owned by Cuban insurgents, and by no Mr. Patterson or any other American. It is well known that she has landed several expeditions in Cuba. She took part in the civil war of Venezuela, carrying troops for Guzman Blanco, which fact was enough to deprive her of her American nationality, if she had not forfeited it before."

Here your correspondent said—"As the Virginius had American papers and was cleared by the American Consul at Jamaica, would it not have been well to examine the question of her nationality before assuming her to be a pirate, and before the wholesale shooting of the prisoners?"

Admiral Polo replied:—"The Virginius obtained those papers on fraudulent representations, and therefore they were void. The American Consul at Kingston did wrong in clearing her; for the character and real destination of the Virginius must have been known to him as well as the filibusters who manned her. General Burriel, upon whom so much abuse has been lavished by the American newspapers, only carried out the sentences of a regularly constituted council of war. It was, however, no mere assumption on the part of the Santiago authorities that the prisoners of the Virginius were filibusters. They knew it to be a fact. They had attempted to land for the purpose of killing loyal people in the island and destroying their property. The authorities acted upon that knowledge in enforcing with the utmost rigor the municipal law governing such cases. I deplore most sincerely that the orders of the Madrid Government did not arrive in time to stop the executions. Regarding the capture of the Virginius, I am sorry to say that many people in this country have the mistaken idea that the same laws of evidence apply to nations in their dealings with one another as to criminal cases. A statement of a certain fact by one friendly Government to another ought to be sufficient evidence. Diplomatic action should not be hampered by the requirement of sworn affidavits and other legal instruments of that nature. They are right and proper in criminal cases, but seem like chicanery in international dealings. The American Government has been repeatedly notified of the character of the Virginius. Why was she not brought back to the United States and turned into a bona fide merchant vessel?"

Are the present complications likely to lead to a war with Spain? was the next query of your correspondent.

Admiral Polo said: "I believe there will be no war unless the senseless clamor of a few should prevail over the American Government. If you drive the Spanish authorities from the island, which cannot be done so easily as some people here suppose, what Government would you substitute? Americans who have lived in Cuba know that the Cubans are incapable of self-government. There remains, then, annexation to the United States. Well, if you must have the island, if that is what you call 'manifest destiny,' take it, if you can, but get a stronger case than that of the Virginius as a pretext for aggression. I do not think it would be generous for this Republic to take advantage of the difficulties of a struggling sister Republic, although I am of those who believe that a war with a foreign power would have the effect of uniting the whole Spanish nation for the defence of the national territory."

Your correspondent then alluded to the reported attempt to mob the American Minister at Madrid.

Admiral Polo answered:—"I am authorized to contradict the whole report telegraphed regarding General Sickles, having received a telegram from Madrid in the following words: Contradict reports of hostile demonstrations against the American Minister. General Sickles is treated with sincere friendship and respect. Some excesses in the monarchial press have been immediately suppressed."

Letters from Alfaro and his Compatriots Repudiated.

The correspondence concerning the assassination, published on Saturday, came almost exclusively from Spanish sources, or was the Spanish version of correspondence emanating from Burriel, Captain Fry, Pedro Alfaro and others, and Vice Consul Smidt. Among Cubans the idea is repudiated utterly that Alfaro and his compatriots ever wrote the letters attributed to them, offering to abandon their cause and to exert themselves in future for its suppression on condition that their lives were spared.

Dr. Manuel Govin, who recently returned from Jamaica, and presented $20,000 to the cause, in speaking of this subject said:—"I am positive that Alfaro never wrote such a letter. I knew the young man too well; I could not be so far mistaken in him and I would burn my hand off in fire, if necessary, to give my assurance of my belief in his unfaltering fidelity."

"But, Doctor, don't you think it possible that in so desperate an emergency he and his friends might have written such an offer, with the sole idea of relieving themselves from the terrible position in which they were placed, and without any idea of fulfilling the promise contained? It would be certainly excusable; in a case where their lives were so imperiled anything would be fair."

"No, sir; he would never be guilty of any act of duplicity to gain any purpose—even to save his life. No, sir. These letters are forged by the Spaniards to degrade these young patriots in their death, so as, if possible, to leave no ideals whose examples shall be worthy to stimulate other young Cubans to heroism and devotion in the cause of their country's freedom. The Spaniards have always resorted to the craftiest expedients, and this is one of them—attempting to chill the warming blood of young patriots before it has reached a dangerous temperature. I knew all of these young men too well to believe any of them guilty of such an act."

All the Cubans with whom the reporter conversed on this subject expressed the same sentiments of unbroken confidence in these young martyrs.

Reverdy Johnson's Views of the Case.

Reverdy Johnson has published the following opinion of the "Virginius" case.

In common with civilized men everywhere, I thought, and still think, that the execution of those who were captured on board the Virginius was barbarous in the extreme and a gross outrage on the sacred laws of humanity. But the capture of the vessel and the subsequent conduct of the captors involve questions which I think by no means suited to the discussion of town meetings, but which should be left now to the deliberation of the President and Cabinet at the council board, where a just conclusion is most likely to be reached as to what the rights and the honor of the nation demand. Certainly no one can reasonably doubt that the President will do all that he constitutionally can do to secure the one and to vindicate the other. Such meetings, therefore, as have been and as are proposed to be held seem to me to be unjust to him, because, though not so intended, they imply an apprehension that he will not be equal to the emergency unless urged by the voice of the people. For this reason I declined being present at the late meeting at the Maryland Institute, and would also decline to participate in any other meeting.

Statement Concerning Captain Fry.

Captain Fry, of the filibuster steamer Virginius, confessed after his sentence that his crew and some of his passengers did not know that the steamer was bound on such an expedition. Then Captain Fry carried to his death a heavy crime on his soul. He had decoyed ignorant seamen and passengers into an expedition to levy war in Cuba, knowing he was making them liable to death if they fell into the hands of the Spanish authorities. It is a question whether either crew or passengers were ignorant of the business of this notorious filibuster craft; but Captain Fry makes this terrible confession. We will hope that it was only a ruse on his part to save the lives of his men, when he knew he had incurred the penalty of death for himself, and for all who knew the character of the expedition.

Marshal Serrano.

In connection with the rumor that the Republic of Spain under Castelar is to be overthrown and the establishment of Marshal Serrano as Regent for the young Duke Alfonzo, who, at a certain time, is to be proclaimed king, it will be of peculiar interest to review for a moment the latter history of Spain.

On the death of Don Carlos in 1833 Isabella, the daughter of Ferdinand and Maria Christina, was made Regent of Spain under her mother, who, in 1840, resigned her regency to the celebrated Espartero. In 1843 she ascended the throne under the authority of the Cortes. After a stormy reign she was compelled to resign in 1868, and to accept an asylum in France. This was owing to an insurrection on the part of what was termed the Liberals of Spain, and with the success of this insurrection Marshal Serrano was placed at the head of a provisional government, and in 1869 he was appointed Regent.

At this time the Cortes was divided into Royal and Republican forces. The leading opponents of the Republicans were Serrano and Prim, and after a time, through their instrumentality principally, the crown was given to the Duke of Aosta, the second son of the King of Italy, Victor Emanuel, and on the 2d of January, 1871, he was proclaimed King Amadeus I.

The reign of this king was full of trouble. The Carlists declared his election void, and the Republicans continued clamorous for the abolition of all forms of monarchy. Early in this business Serrano quieted an insurrection, but the power of Amadeus gradually declined, and February 11, 1873, he performed with much heroism his final act of abdication. Then, quickly following, a majority of the Cortes decided in favor of a republic, which was established February 14, 1873, with Salermon as its first President. The history of the Republic of Spain is altogether familiar to the intelligent reader. Whatever it had of strength and prophetic hope for freedom seems now crushed, and if the dispatch we print should prove entirely true, we may look for a return in the nation of all its ancient forms of despotism.

THE mother of General Ryan applied to the Mayor of Chicago on Thursday for a pass, being desirous of going to Washington, but unable to pay the expenses of her journey.

THE authors of the Ostend Manifesto in 1854, intended to induce Spain to sell Cuba to the United States, were James Buchanan, of Pennsylvania, John Y. Mason of Virginia, and Pierre Soule of Louisiana, American ministers at London, France, and Madrid. They are all dead.

—The First National Bank of Kansas City, Mo., has gone into voluntary liquidation.

FOREIGN.

Change in the French Cabinet.

FRANCE.

The Resignations of the Ministry Accepted.

VERSAILLES, November 25.—President MacMahon has accepted the resignations of the members of the Cabinet, they having been again tendered.

The New Cabinet.

PARIS, November 25.—The Cabinet as reconstructed is composed as follows: Minister of the Interior, Duke De Broglie; Foreign Affairs, Duke De Cazes; Finance, M. Pierre Magne; Justice, M. Ernaul; War, General Du Barnil; Marine, Admiral D'Hornoy; Public Instruction and Worship, M. Batbie; Public Works, M. Deseilligny; and Agriculture and Commerce, M. Bouillerie. The Duke De Cazes is a new member of the Cabinet. M. Beaul, who was Minister of the Interior, has retired, and the Duke De Broglie takes his place, relinquishing the Foreign Ministry to the Duke De Cazes. These are the only changes made in the Cabinet as it existed before the last resignation of the Ministry.

Trial of Marshal Bazaine.

In the trial of Marshal Bazaine to-day, Gen. Bayer testified that Bismarck told him that he was willing to grant an armistice if the army of Metz would declare in favor of Napoleon.

CANADA.

Snow Drifts.

QUEBEC, November 25.—In many places the snow drifts are from eight to ten feet high, making the road impassible.

A Steamship Missing.

Fears are entertained for the steamship Picton, ten days out from Quebec for Picton.

French Canadians Returning from the United States.

MONTREAL, November 25.—It is estimated that 30,000 French Canadians have returned to this province from the United States during the past three weeks, owing largely to the stoppage of manufactures. A large proportion of them have left for western Canada.

AFRICA.

The Ashantee War.

LONDON, November 26—4:30 A. M.—Later dispatches have been received from General Wolsely, commanding the Ashantee expedition. They condemn the native auxiliaries as worthless. The Ashantees are in full retreat. Their main column, however, is within easy march of the British advance. Yet the General is unable to overtake and attack them, owing to the tardiness and cowardice of his native allies. He complains of the humiliating position in which he is placed in consequence of being obliged to depend on such help.

GERMANY.

Archbishop Ledochowski Punished.

BERLIN, November 25.—A fresh sentence has been pronounced against Archbishop Ledochowski for continuing unlawfully to institute priests. He is condemned to two years' imprisonment and an additional fine of 5,400 thalers.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Shipments of Bullion.

LONDON, November 25.—The steamer from Liverpool for Boston, to-day, took one hundred thousand dollars in bullion.

POLITICAL.

The Kansas Senatorship—Governor Osborn's Appointment Denounced.

LEAVENWORTH, KAN., November 25.—There are fourteen daily newspapers in Kansas, thirteen of which have squarely repudiated the action of Governor Osborn in nominating Robert Crozier to the United States Senate. The only paper that defends the action of the Governor is the Commonwealth, of Topeka, edited by Postmaster Henry King. Public sentiment almost unanimously condemns the appointment as a Caldwell victory. Senator Ingalls left for Washington this afternoon. H. W. Gillet, at whose suggestion the Governor appointed Crozier, went with him. It is understood Crozier is not a candidate for re-election, but that the contracting powers agree to make him United States District Judge in Delahay's place, Gillet Caldwell, Smith and Company agreeing to aid Osborn in his election to the United States Senate. Crozier, it is understood, goes to Washington with Judge Delahay's resignation in his pocket, to be used in case it will do him any good. It is generally believed that Senator Ingalls had nothing to do with the appointment of Crozier, and that he, with the balance of the delegation, will not aid in carrying out the agreement, which is so dishonorable to the State and nation. The members of the Legislature from Leavenworth county did not ask and did not know that the Governor intended to appoint Crozier. There is general disgust among all classes of citizens at the appointment, except with the immediate friends of Caldwell. The five daily papers in Leavenworth, the home of Gov. Osborn and Robert Crozier, agree in denouncing the appointment as unwise.

Louisiana People's Convention.

NEW ORLEANS, November 25.—The People's Convention to-day adopted an address and a series of resolutions, and adjourned, subject to the call of the President. The session was harmonious. The following was adopted:

Resolved, That our fellow-citizens, Judge John A. Campbell, Hon. Randall Hunt, Robert H. Marr, Horatio N. Ogden and William B. Spencer be appointed a committee on the part of the people of Louisiana to repair to Washington and present their memorial for relief from the Kellogg usurpation, and the restoration of Louisiana to her rights and liberties as a free State of the American Union, as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

Speeches were made by Governor McEnery and others.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1873.

BONDS at Frankfort 97½.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 33f.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 109½.

MACMAHON has accepted the resignation of his Ministry.

THE Beaver Argus and Radical predicts that the new Constitution will be adopted by a large majority.

THE New York World gives the following reasons why there will not be a war with Spain: 1. The administration deprecates it. 2. The commercial interests of the country deprecate it. 3. Ambitious Republican politicians do not desire it. All this is rather complimentary to the Republicans.

THE FOREIGN lecturers seem not to be dismayed, because so many of their numbers have been coolly received. This year has not been prolific of bountiful harvests to them, if we except Bradlaugh and Newman Hall. Yet others are coming. The younger Tom Hood and Dumas are now named as among those in prospect. Both will have the reputations of their fathers to aid them, and the latter has achieved a literary reputation of his own. What success they will achieve here remains to be seen.

OUR LATEST telegrams concerning the Spanish imbroglio are more moderate in tone, and indicate a better feeling. The claim put in by the Spanish Minister, that the "Virginius" had forfeited the American registry, and was not, therefore, an American vessel, is thought to have some weight, as there is no American who has yet come forward to claim the vessel. Of course, this is merely a presumptive case, and does not relieve the Spanish officials from some of the worst phases of their conduct, but it may legally justify them in the seizure of the vessel.

THE aim of the Constitutional Convention was to embody the wishes of the people, and a careful reading of the document will show our readers how perfectly this has been done. The amendments proposed in the present draft are of a character to show how seriously the question of legislative abuse, corporation influences, and undue interference in local affairs have weighed on the representatives of the people, for, after all, Constitutional Conventions, like all really representative bodies, seek to carry out the opinions and wishes of their constituents, not to mould them. It was the general dissatisfaction with the existing state of affairs which gave rise to the call of the people for a Constitutional Convention, and caused the strong utterances made by the able men of whom the Convention was composed. It was the expression of the people of the State for better laws to guard against abuse, and for a better chance to have their laws administered by good men.

WE DO things in this country, that ought to be a trifle startling, with less noise and excitement than they display in Germany. For example, a proposition was made by the city fathers of Lueneburg to sell the silver; and nearly every German newspaper is discussing the terrible enormity of the proposed event. The silver collection in question is valuable, not so much on account of the material, which is estimated at only $6,000, as on account of the workmanship displayed on the various cups, plates, &c., that compose it. One of its most celebrated treasures is a cup of Benvenuto Cellini's workmanship, exquisitely executed in the best renaissance style. When the proposition was first broached to sell this rare collection, for so long a time the boast and glory of Lueneburg, the whole city was divided into two factions, those in favor, and those opposed to selling out. The one urged the romance of the affair, the long possession and romantic history of the silver, the other, the needs of the treasury. We could sell out our City Hall, Court House, or give away our water bonds, or do anything else strange or wonderful, and not make half the noise.

A WORD OF ADVICE.

While apparently self-interested, we have a remark to offer, some advice to extend, to our merchants and business men. One result of the panic has been to depreciate the value of goods of nearly all kinds. It is not probable that a recovery of values will be reached for several months,—quite certainly not before Spring, if then. You must take losses,—it is absolutely unavoidable. But if you can make a quick sale of your goods, at ruling prices, even though it involve a loss, and can buy again on the market at low figures, you stand an almost certain chance not only of making good your losses, but of securing a profit. Is not all this true? Never was a lively dollar of so much value as now. Now for the advice. Advertise freely. One per cent. on the value of your goods will scatter intelligence of what you have, and of your purpose to sell, to thousands who never knew you. Those thousands have money, in small sums, and are looking around for the best place at which to buy. We say it for your good, as well as ours,—this is the time to make liberal advertising pay.

THE FIRST NEED.

Congress meets, in regular annual session, on Monday. Two subjects will come prominently before it,—one of which can be readily disposed of, and the other ought to be, but we fear, will not. It is not probable that the Cuban affairs will be in a shape to receive attention, as the time has been extended for an answer from the Spanish Government. Till this comes, it will not be possible for the President to turn the subject over to Congress. Our financial needs may therefore command the prompt attention of Congress. As regards these, if a few facts are kept in mind there ought to be no serious difficulty in reaching a harmony of view as to what shall be done. That business is prostrated, owing mainly to a lack of currency, is not deniable. If there was too little of currency when the crop-moving period came, there is much too little now, when credits are destroyed, and commercial paper is of little value.

The simplest way to secure a supply is to legalize the reissue of the $44,000,000 of retired currency, and to free the banks from the necessary of retaining twenty-five per cent. of recess. At the present most of our banks have these, but the withdrawal of several millions from current use distresses business men. This done, and more comprehensive measures of relief may be considered. More than we have suggested will be needed, but so much ought to be done within a week after Congress opens its session.

Against all this will come objections from two sources—those who know nothing about the principles of finance, and those who are interested in maintaining a stringent money market. These will cry out against inflation, claiming that it will enhance prices, and defer the resumption of specie payments. Which is better—to reach specie payments early, through the untold misery that must attend the continued prostration of business, or slowly by means of the rapid recovery of business and the diffusion of plenty among the poor? We believe Congress, by making money plentiful, can do more to bless the country than it has had the opportunity of doing for many years before.

PRECEDENTS INVOLVED.

The Commercial assumes to defend President Woolsey, rather than itself, for the reason that if he is right, some plausibility is given to the extreme anti-American views entertained by our cotemporary. President Woolsey is a strong anti-tariff advocate,—if he is such reliable authority, why don't the Commercial follow him on that subject? It will be noticed, however, that President Woolsey, as regards the "Virginius," states and answers a hypothetical case that totally differs from the real one. "If," he very carefully observes, the "Virginius" though sailing under the United States flag, was engaged in traffic prohibited by the law of nations, then the United States Government cannot make the transaction any ground for war, or, in fact, of complaint." Well, she was not engaged in a "traffic prohibited by the laws of the nations,"—the slave trade, or piracy, for example,—but in transporting merchandise. So the bottom is entirely out of this hypothesis. And if she were doing all Dr. Woolsey says,—so long as she carried the American flag, and had the necessary papers to constitute her an American vessel, was she not entitled to a trial, and those on board as well? Our correspondent, "America" however, furnishes some strong precedents, touching cases of this kind:

EDITORS GAZETTE: In 1793, Washington issued a proclamation declaring our neutrality in the war then existing in Europe; and Mr. Jefferson, the Secretary of State, in a letter to the British Government, assumed the ground that the purchase of arms and military accoutrements by an agent of the French Government in this country, with an intent to export them to France, was not a violation of neutrality. He insisted that we were free to make, vend and export arms; that it was the constant occupation of many, and it could scarcely be expected that their business should be suppressed because France and England were at war. The law of nations exacts no such interference, but is satisfied with the confiscation of the arms, if captured on their way to the point of destination.

The same Administration ordered Collectors of Customs that the export of arms as merchandise was free to all, and was not to be interfered with; and in 1842, Mr. Webster, then Secretary of State, declared, "If it be true that citizens have been engaged in supplying arms to a nation at war with another—both at peace with us—we are not bound to prevent it." Such commerce was left to the risk of capture and confiscation.

It would seem from these—a few of the innumerable authorities which might be cited—that even had Spain declared that a war of rebellion raged in Cuba, that the voyage of the "Virginius" was strictly a legal voyage, rendering her cargo liable to forfeiture if captured. But Spain never having admitted the preliminary fact, it appears to be equally clear that the voyage was a lawful one entirely, that her capture on the high seas was either an act of war on the part of Spain or an act of piracy upon the part of her officers. If Spain assumes the act, she must be whipped; if she disavows it, then all concerned in the capture and subsequent massacre must be dealt with as pirates. Would the Commercial apologists desire any further authority?

AMERICA.

THE JEOPARDIZED BONDS.

Enough is now known concerning the position of the Water and Street Extension Bonds for it to be stated that at least half a million dollars of money and bonds are in jeopardy, if not actually lost. There are various attempts to shift responsibility, but as nearly as we can learn, the facts are as follows: The Secretary of the Water Commission was, in reality, its executive agent, acting under directions that were sometimes formal, and at other times informal. But that he was the agent of the Commission is amply proven by the character of the receipts given. It is further declared, and we incline to believe it, that the selection of the Nation Trust Company through which to negotiate certain of the bonds, was done by and with the consent of the Commission, either formally or informally expressed. A house in Philadelphia was the regular fiduciary agent of the Commission, and hence the selection of the Nation Trust Company was intended to aid them in their difficulties.

Whether or not the ordinance conferring on the Water Commission the power to negotiate their bonds was legal, is not now a question; such an ordinance was passed, and such power conferred. If the Water Commission trusted their Secretary sufficiently to permit him to receive, receipt for, and direct the negotiation of bonds, there was nothing improper done, if we assume that they had power to dispose of the bonds at all. Consequently, the Commission is, in any event, responsible to the city for their disposal. If, as is asserted, the Secretary acted with the knowledge and consent of the Commission, this responsibility is all the more clear and positive.

Let us put this phase of the case in its strongest light. Suppose the Secretary, on receiving the bonds, had clandestinely sent them to some other than the chosen fiduciary agent of the Commission, to be negotiated. Let us say that of his own motion entirely he placed them in the Nation Trust Company, with the results we now have. We hold that still the Commission would be responsible to the city, and he to the Commission. What is the Commission for? Evidently to have charge of all that pertains to the erection of the new Water Works. Is not the negotiation of bonds a very important part of that work? And is it not the duty of the Commission to know just how these negotiations are being conducted? If they fail in this, who is responsible? And if one or more of them fails to attend to his duty, are they any the less responsible for errors or wrongs that may occur? It is freely declared that the gentleman who seemed so ready to throw aside responsibility, has been most irregular in his attendance at the meetings of the Commission, of any of its members. We say these things, not to shield the Secretary, but to properly locate the responsibility of the affair.

So far as we are able to learn, there were no errors of intention, but rather of judgment. This, and the further question as to the probability of securing the money, we do not discuss. Back of all such things is a question of propriety, as well of law. Why should any Commission be permitted to negotiate bonds, and control the disposition of moneys? Why are not all the fiduciary responsibilities of the city placed in the hands of regularly chosen officers, who are under bonds for the faithful performance of their duties? Can any good reason be given? Never was business managed more loosely than is some of our city business. Street and other Commissioners, and even contractors, are allowed to handle and negotiate the bonds of the city, in large amounts. These persons have not given security, and if a defalcation happens, they are only so far responsible as a civil suit will make them, unless criminal intent is shown. This we do not understand to exist in the present case; but it forcibly illustrates the need of change in our financial system.

We are not so sanguine as are some that the money will be easily or speedily recovered. We hope for the best, but we know what difficulties attend such affairs. But all this is a matter of responsibility and time. If the Directors of the Nation Trust Company are not too heavily involved, such of them as we know are honorable men, and will, no doubt, make good all the losses of the bank. The Finance Committee have this matter in charge, and will, without doubt, promptly put the affair in the best shape possible. But admit that the city will get the money promptly back, and it still is true that we must have a thorough revision of our financial system. Our financial officers should have charge of all our monetary affairs. We say this, not only because of the necessity for safety, but that there may be more order and regularity in the management of the city's finances. The presence of one warning should be enough. We sincerely hope that this subject will be promptly acted on, and the most favorable results possible be speedily reached.

WET WILDS OF WALES.

Holyhead—Menai Straits—Bangor—Carnarvon—Llanberis—Bedd Gelert—Capelcerig—Rhayadr-y-Wennol—Bettws-y-Ced Llugwy—Ffos Noddyn—and No Snowdon.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

In a city in which so able and generally interesting a journal as Y Wasg is published, it is possible that some account of a little holiday excursion in North Wales may be interesting. I am capable of giving you such an account, but you must first be made to understand that the statistical and instructive men were not of our party, which consisted only of a couple of boys—Pittsburgh boys—who arranged to meet in Wales and get as much good out of it as they could while talking over old times. They had guide books, but scorned to use them, except surreptitiously, after having been at some place, in order to know whether they had gone into raptures over the correct things or not.

My first experience of Wales was, in a small way, unpleasant. I arrived at Holyhead at midnight, after a pleasant four hours' voyage from Kingston, with a great number of Irish Roman Catholic people, who were en route for Parry le Monial, on the famous pilgrimage. They were not unpleasant, ascetic pilgrims, but genial and jolly ones, the peas in whose shoes had undoubtedly been boiled beforehand. My friend, Father X., was among them, and he told me any quantity of amusing stories as we walked the deck, smoking our cigars. All of these pleasant folks, however, went directly through to London, while I was to spend the rest of the night in that wretched little sea-port. A man at the gangway asked me if I wanted to go to the —— hotel? I assented, and he took me and my luggage and put us in an omnibus behind a house, in a lonely place, and then left to look for more passengers. I think I sat in that omnibus, in that lonely place, for half an hour, amusing myself by fancying what I should do in case the horse ran away, or the man never came back, or anything else of a similar agreeable nature occurred. At length the man came back, without having captured any body else, and drove me, in about three minutes, to the inn. I was irate at this. I did not believe there could be any necessity for not telling me to follow my nose to the hotel, and I felt sure I was not improved by being kept for half an hour in an omnibus.

The young woman who received me at the inn said that the only things I could get to eat or drink were a biscuit and a glass of sherry, so I asked to be shown to my room. Of course this was at the top of the house, which was, fortunately, not high. Before I suffered myself to be left with my solitary dip, I ran my hand between the sheets and found they were dry, and then the maid departed. After partly undressing I took the candle to examine the bed, and discovered that it had been occupied before. The man who had used it oftenest used a bad quality of pomade, and the sheets were by no means snowy. This was a thing I thought I could not stand. I rang the bell, or rather I pulled the rope, a score of times, each time thinking of something extremely severe to say to the unfortunate being who should come to see what was the matter with me. After very much tribulation, however, I decided that they unhooked their bells from the bell ropes at night in that part of Wales, so I just tumbled into bed with my clothes on, after placing the oleagenous bolsters in that part of the room which I regarded as the farthest removed from my nose.

This was not an auspicious beginning, and that inn was so unpleasant that it did me much good to leave it early next morning. A walk through the town showed me that there were several hundred other inns, but that I had probably, to judge by appearances, happened upon the best.

A morning ride by rail across the island of Arglesea is not especially attractive. Almost the only objects of interest on the island seemed to be the ends of the bridges by which you leave it. I was in a state of excitement about those bridges. I had read of them ever since my most tender infancy, and my most elementary geography book at school contained a wood cut of them. Everyone has heard of the bridges over the Menai Straits, and any one who wants to know how long and high they are, and who built them, can go to the library and find out. What I can do is to tell that I regard the two bridges as really stupendous frauds. The Suspension bridge, after all the pother made about it, is not nearly so handsome as the suspension bridges of Pittsburgh or Cincinnati, and the tubular bridge is like a four sided iron box (whoever before heard of square tubes? It ought to be called the cubular bridge) resting on piers, and in appearance not altogether unlike the Fort Wayne Railway bridge over the Allegheny. Yet I never heard of any of our Pittsburgh bridges being held up to Allegheny county infants as eighth wonders of the world, or being honored with places in the pictorial geographies, along with the pyramids of Egypt, the great fire in New York, the Sphynx, and the Bedouin family in the act of moving. The Menai Straits are not, apparently, as broad as the Allegheny river. After crossing them from Anglesea I arrived at Bangor, not an unpleasant little seaside town with hilly streets, regular watering-place villas, in semi-detached or else built in terraces and rows. There I met my friend, and we walked about for an hour, utterly ignorant of where we were going next. Were we not out for a "good time," and was there any reason why we should trouble ourselves with details? Not by any manner of means. Presently we decided that we had had enough of Bangor, and, as we found upon consulting a friendly but somewhat perplexing Bradshaw, that the next train we could leave by would take us to Carnarvon. We went and got into that train, and were soon in Carnarvon.

I don't believe there is any more perfectly satisfactory old ruined castle than that at Carnarvon. It is just what it ought to be. There are round towers and square ones, moat and portcules, donjonkeeps, I am sure, and galleries and narrow passages. Doorways that open onto nothing in particular, and deep pits from which a vivid imagination can extract the hollow groans of prisoners long since tortured or starved to death. Hideous, often headless, gargoyles delight the medioeval-loving eye, and, crowning glory of all! upon paying fourpence for admission, one can wander freely at his own sweet will without the nuisance of a guide. My friend and I skipped all over the place, up and down, on turrets, and in dungeons, as merrily as lambkins or goats or grigs or whatever is regarded as most actively merry. And we even sat down on the top of a turret and sketched each other, with distant mountains for back ground.

All this time the weather was lovely, and we decided that so it should remain while we did. Going to a hotel for luncheon, we discovered that the most completely correct thing for us to do next would be to hire a car and be driven to Llanberis. This was a delightful idea. At length we felt we would be in Wales, for were we not going to a place the name of which began with double L? And a very charming drive we had, going through a most picturesque region, past the most stupendous slate quarries, built tier upon tier along the side of the mountains, with men hanging by ropes and working like bees in the air. We arrived at Llanberis in the midst of a down-pour of rain. Between two hotels we hesitated, for both had names that were agreeably novel. One was the Dolbadarn Hotel and the other was the Padarn Villa. My friend said "he be darn," which was wicked, but, I think, only a natural depravity under the circumstances. We went to the Padarn Villa, and were given a nice room at the top of the house, with a slanting ceiling, in which was our only window, a neat glass-trap door, through which we could thrust our heads when we got weary of stooping. This was a very convenient arrangement. It was also a ventilator, and we had our choice of shutting it and smothering, or opening it and drowning, for the rain still came down. We chose to drown.

We walked through the down-pour to see a lovely and most peculiar water fall, which comes down a long chute sideways. A small band of children accompanied us as guides. They spoke nothing but Welsh, which we did not understand very well, and, as they understood English, we got even with them by talking German to them, which they did not understand. When we got to the cataract we admired it very much, and, indeed, felt a sympathy for it, for it seemed to be almost as wet as we were.

When we got back to the hotel we ordered dinner, and were told that perhaps we might get some, but the cook was very busy, as the house was overflowing with people. Of course this made us ravenously hungry, and we became so importunate that at length we did get some chops and potatoes. My deliberate opinion is that Welsh mutton is almost as much of a fraud as the Menai bridge. I have always heard it spoken of with reverence. Ortolans and nightingale tongues and Welsh mutton have been dishes that figured at my Barmecide feasts, but since I have been in Wales I have ceased to believe in it. There is too much of it, and it is too tough. I believe we dined, lunched and breakfasted on mutton while we were there, and I have an added respect for my teeth, since they were equal to the strain.

Everybody at the Padarn Villa was talking of Snowdon, for Llanberis is at the foot of that mountain, and it is the chief object of interest there. There were eight or ten Englishmen at the hotel who had come down to Snowdon that day, and they were very wet and cross, not having seen anything but fog and mist. We couldn't see Snowdon that night, because of the rain, but we decided to climb it next morning.

After a night spent partly in bumping our heads against the ceiling, partly in paddling about our room trying to save things from the flood that came in through our window, day dawned, and we went down and had breakfast. We couldn't see Snowdon on account of the rain. We lounged about the house, and went out and bought water-proof garments; then we lounged again. At noon, as we couldn't see Snowdon on account of the rain, we decided not to climb the mountain from that side; it would be much better to start from the other side. So we hired a car and were driven through the pass of Llanberis, and another beautiful valley, whose euphoneous name I have neglected to remember. (I think it was Nant Gwynant). The scenery was very, very lovely, and indeed we were not sorry that we had driven that way instead of walking over the mountain. As soon as we were thoroughly drenched and our waterproofs had got soaked, we began to enjoy ourselves immensely. There is a beauty about those Welsh valleys and mountains that is all their own; they are not as grand as Switzerland, or as gloomy and stupendous as Norway; they are neither so grotesque as the Saxon-Switzerland, nor so bleak and black as Connemara; but they are altogether lovely nevertheless, and, with a few hours sunshine every year or two, I think would be nearly perfect. Such waterfalls I never saw before. Every mountain was seamed with them, every respectable bush had its own little private torrent, and the white, wild waters went leaping and roaring in every direction. For this, however, Wales deserves no credit. Any country could have as many if its soil consisted of mountains and its climate of water.

In the afternoon we reached Bedd Gelert. It was there that the faithful hound—but I need say no more. Anyone who has not heard of that faithful hound is not likely to read the GAZETTE. He is buried at Bedd Gelert. He is also, I believe, buried in some dozen other places, but first, it is thought, in India. In short, he is one of those myths which Mr. Max Muller and Mr. Cox and Professor Fiske have taken so much trouble in tracing back to India, which, in their case, represents first principles. I don't know whether the faithful hound was typical of the black night or the brilliant aurora, the rosy dawn or the God of day; but doubtless he signified something, for every respectable legend or fairy tale must, now-a-days.

We found no dog, but a very good hotel proved just as satisfactory to us. Then we went for a walk through the pass of Aberglaslyn (I feel sure that is not right, but it may do.) We walked as far as a most picturesque old bridge, where a picturesque old woman in a man's hat, with a pipe in her mouth, sold us some photographs. She made several remarks which I shall not repeat, as I never was good at consonants. All the children we met were very polite, bobbing odd little courtesies and saying something that, when written, I feel sure would have been spelt "Llddwyynn," or some other way. In one way they were previous. They all knew enough English to say, "Good by," which, as we had only just come into the country, was not hospitable. This pass is beautiful. In and out and over great fern covered rocks a boiling, foaming brook roars and tumbles and fights its way, seething and leaping, ever onwards and downwards; while the great moss and ivy grown precipices in some places are so close together that they seem doubting whether or not they shall close altogether and stop the noisy progress of the stream. My friend and I were so impressed that we began to make poetry. Here is the first verse. It is also the last:

See the mountain torrent
Rushing to the sea,
Wishing that it warn't
Going down to be!

After that we were both so much exhausted that we went back to the hotel to dinner.

We were unable to see Snowdon, on account of the rain. Our room at this hotel was twin brother to the one we had at the Padarn Villa.

Next morning we could not get a sight of Snowdon, on account of the rain. On this account we hired a car and drove to Capel Curig. We might have gone to Tang-y-Bwlch, which is on the famous Festinior narrow-gauge railway; but we had not yet seen Snowdon, on account of the rain, and Capel Cerig is a famous place for making ascents from.

When we got to Capel Cerig we could not see Snowdon, on account of the rain, and we were too wet already to find any novelty in walking up into the clouds which shrouded that famous peak, so we simply drove on through lovely valleys to Bettws-y-Coed, pausing for half an hour to see Rhayadr-y-Wennol, the largest of all the waterfalls.

Bettws-y-Coed is a famous place of resort. It is composed of hotels, inns and lodging houses. The name is pronounced something like Bet you she could, which may be one reason Englishmen flock there, for betting is their ruling passion, and doubtless most of them are willing to bet you she couldn't, if they can get reasonable odds, or a straight tip from any one.

At this place the hotels were so crowded that we couldn't get any room at all, but we looked so respectable and our faces were so much in our favor that we finally did get a corner in an outside porch to put our luggage in. We then walked to the fairy glen, which the natives, more sensitive to sweet sounds, call Llugwy, Ffos Noddyn. We couldn't pronounce this, and, as we couldn't get a bed or a sofa or even a bit of floor to sleep on, and as it was raining so steadily that we couldn't, with proper regard to our health, sleep out of doors, we reluctantly decided to leave Wales. We were disgusted to a certain extent, but, even if we had desired to do so, we could not shake off the dust from our feet as we left. It was too moist for that. So we silently and sadly had our traps wheeled on a Welsh barrow, by a Welsh boy, to the station, and took our departure. We passed through Llan-rwst, and were not tempted to stop. Even the picturesque castle at Conway, over the railway, had no attraction for us. Our love of the picturesque was drowned out of us, and we hurried on to Chester, leaving Wales without once having seen Snowdon, on account of the rain.

Since I took this Welsh trip some kind friend has sent me a copy of a newspaper, published in Pittsburgh, called Y Wasg. I have perused it with interest, and feel sure that it contains much that is valuable and instructive. I do not profess to understand it all, but, upon examining it closely, I have been much struck by some things in it. Such burning Welsh words as "Shah o Persia," "whisky goreu," or "Jones," impressed me very much, and lead me to believe that, if I had seen Snowdon, I could, with some study, obtain a knowledge of the language.

TO RUPTURED PEOPLE.

To the general public the subject of rupture or bubonocele is a matter of very little interest. To one-sixth of the male portion of the community, however, it is a matter of grave and serious import, as that proportionate number are afflicted with that direful malady. Many of those afflicted are hardly aware of the fact that they are so; and there are others again who are apt to mistake rupture for some other disease, and again some other disease for rupture. In a displacement of the kind of which we are writing it is a serious fault to be in error. A delay of one day in procuring medical relief has often been at the expense of a life. Those who read this, will thank us for the knowledge of the fact, that there is a relief in every case, and a cure in many cases in which a cure may be thought impossible. We invite all persons who are ruptured or who suspect themselves to be so, to call and procure the right kind of an appliance or ascertain if an appliance is necessary. Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY EVENING, Nov. 25, 1873.

Money to-day has been, as usual, close; but there is some money offering on collaterals and mortgages, though rates are beyond all reason in some cases. Yet with all the bad news in various quarters, there is yet a generally hopeful feeling. There is no doubt that there will be a good deal of difficulty in financial circles for some time to come, but after we are through these darker days the business of the country will be on a sounder and more substantial basis than ever before.

In local stocks there is not much doing, though some sales are being made at somewhat lower figures than have heretofore been ruling.

In the New York market stocks to-day have been up, advancing quite nicely. The advance, however, is probably only temporary, and it is not safe to buy at present figures. There may be a decline looked for in a few days.

Gold opened to-day at 109⅛, and remained at that figure all day. As more pacific advices come from Madrid, the premium will probably decline yet lower.

In Philadelphia stocks have been steady, Pennsylvania being at 45 and firm.

Luther S. Kauffman, Broker, No. 96 Fourth Avenue, furnishes the following quotations of bonds and stocks from the latest advices by telegraph:

NEW YORK, November 25, 1873.

Money closed at 7 gold. Sterling was heavy and lower at 107@107¼ for sixty days and 108⅜@108⅝ for sight. Customs receipts $329,000. Gold closed at 109⅛, after selling at 109⅝@109⅞. The advance to the latter figure was caused by a report that the Secretary of the Navy was visiting the navy yard and hurrying the work on the vessels of war. Loans were at 3-64, 1-32, 7 and 7 gold. The final rate was 7 per cent. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $280,000. Clearings $48,000,000. Governments were quiet and steady. State bonds were nominal. The railway and miscellaneous speculation was strong and higher at an advance of ½ to 3½ per cent., until late in the day, when a reaction of ½ to 1¼ per cent. took place. At the final close there was a steadier feeling again. The volume of business was large, particularly in Western Union, New York Central, Lake Shore, Pacific, Wabash and Northwestern common. The buoyancy in stocks was occasioned by a telegram from Washington that both the President and the Secretary of the Treasury would recommend to Congress that the $44,000,000 reserve be made a part of the permanent circulation of the country, that the reserve would be heavily drawn upon this week and a report that the Grinnell matter had been privately adjusted. The stock sales between ten and two o'clock amounted to 144,000 shares, of which 26,200 were Western Union, 20,000 Union Pacific, 3,000 Wabash, 4,600 Northwestern, 8,100 New York Central, 19,000 Lake Shore, and 7,800 Ohios.

The Chairman of the Clearing House Association appointed the following new committee, and the report of the old committee of nine will be referred to them: W. H. Kitchen, of the Park Bank; W. F. Vail, Commerce Bank; D. C. Hays, Union; Richard Berry, Tradesmen's; Geo. W. Duer, State of New York; Jno. Castree Irving, Jas. Buell, importers and traders; F. COMMERCIAL.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

PITTSBURGH GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, November 25, 1873.

There was nothing particularly new in commercial circles to day; trade was generally reported dull and unsatisfactory, caused to some extent by the inclement condition of the weather, and then the recent financial disturbances are exerting a very unfavorable influence, and are not without their effect in depressing general business. It began to look a week or ten days ago as if the worst of the panic was about over; people were beginning to feel much better, confidence was rapidly being restored, but recent events, with which our readers are familiar, have thrown us back, and the outlook at present is not very encouraging so far as Pittsburgh is concerned, although there is some consolation to learn that it is improving elsewhere. The probability is that trade generally will be dull until after the 1st of January.

APPLES—In fair demand, and if anything firmer, but there is no change to note in prices; $1.50@2.50 per brl. for common to fair, and $3 to 3.50 for prime to choice.

APPLE BUTTER—Continues quiet, but the demand is pretty well up to the supply; selling at 60 to 70c per gallon, according to quality.

BUTTER—We can report a steady demand, and prices are still maintained; ranging from 10@15 for inferior to fair; 18@22 for medium to good, and 25@28 for prime to choice—occasional small sales of the latter at 30.

BROOM CORN—Continues quiet and unchanged: red and red tipped, 5½@6¼; fair to good green, 7½@8¼; hurl, 9½@10.

BEANS—The market is considerably overstocked, and prices are weak but unchanged: $2@2.50 ₩ bushel, the outside figure for choice navies.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—4½c ₩ lb.

CHEESE—Is in good demand, but prices have undergone no change. We continue to quote in a jobbing way at 12½@13 for good Ohio Dairy; 15@15½ for prime Ohio Factory, September make, prime New York Goshen, 15½@16; Young America, 18; Nutmeg, 17; Ohio Sweitzer, 16@18.

CIDER—Is quiet and unchanged, $6 to $9 per brl. as to quality.

CRANBERRIES—Sales of Jersey's at $10@12 ₩ brl. for good to choice.

CARBON OIL—Continues very dull, and prices have further declined; we now quote at 10½@11c by the car load, and 1@2c additional for smaller lots.

CANNED GOODS—Moderately active, but prices are lower. Tomatoes are lower now than they have been at any time this year. Peaches have also declined, while Winslow's Corn is still holding its own, as it is a monopoly, has no competition of any consequence. Tomatoes are being sold in a jobbing way at $2.25, and $3.20 per dozen for 3 lb Peaches.

DRIED FRUIT—Quiet and unchanged; apples, 8@9c per lb, as to quality. Peaches, 10@12.

EGGS—Fresh scarce and higher, selling at 28@29 and even 30. Pickled in fair supply, and may be quoted all the way from 18 to 25.

FLOUR—There is a fair consumptive demand, but there is no change to note in rates. We continue to quote spring wheat flours at $6.50@6.75 for Wisconsins, and $7@7.25 for Minnesotas; red winter wheat at $7.50@7.75 for fair to good, and $8 for choice.

GRAIN—Continues in light supply, and there is a firmer feeling in consequence, but prices since the date of our last report have undergone no quotable change. Wheat is scarce and firmer but unchanged, $1.40@1.45 for fair to prime red, and $1.50@1.55 for amber and white. Dealers all say there is no margin at the above rates, that they barely cover cost, yet the mills here, so far as we can learn, are unwilling to pay any more. PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, November 25, 1873.

Trade continues very dull, so far at least as our market is concerned, and there are no new or important characteristics worthy of special notice. Crude remains about as last quoted, 75@82½, according to pipe line, equal to about 2⅜@2⅝c per gallon delivered here. It seems to be generally understood that the movement, which was on foot some weeks past, in regard to stopping development and thereby curtailing production, has virtually been abandoned, and this accounts for the reaction in the position of the market within the past few days. There are too many conflicting interests to reconcile to make a movement of this kind anything like successful; it has been tried before and in every instance practically proved a failure, consequently producers generally, if we are not mistaken do not care to go into anything of the kind again—they have come to the conclusion that the best policy is to let every tub stand upon its own bottom. Refined continues very dull and prices are entirely nominal; 13 delivered in Philadelphia, or 10½@11c free on cars here.

Oil barrels continue dull, but prices are without quotable change; countries, $1.65; city make, $1.75—these are the asking rates.

New York Breadstuffs Market—Weekly Review.

NEW YORK, November 21.—We have had quite an active though variable wheat market; the strong and buoyant feeling that distinguished our market this day week has been followed by increased activity and buoyancy; a marked improvement in commercial sterling, an easier money market, more favorable foreign advices, some decline in ocean freights, and the closing of most of the canals in this State, by which some 1,500,000 bushels wheat are locked up, have been the chief causes that have given character and tone to the market; should the canal remain closed for the season, its influence will be far greater than is generally supposed, as the exports from this port will show a still greater falling off than we expected this day week, and this cannot fail to exert a marked influence at Liverpool as well as here; at this season of the year the movement of wheat by railway cannot be large, as all railway companies give the preference to perishable goods, hence the aggregate receipts in December are not likely to reach 1,500,000 bushels; later in the season they can be increased materially. At present prices at the west, and higher rates of inland freights, wheat cannot be placed here at the current prices the coming month. Our stocks of both wheat and flour are light, of the latter about half that held at the corresponding time last year, and with some revival of business as the season advances, a marked increase in the consumption of both wheat and flour is certain. We had more inquiry for spring for the future, but holders have formally declined to sell at the offers made, regarding the prospects for the future as very favorable indeed; especially as there is every indication that money will be easier and readily obtained for legitimate business. Banks and moneyed institutions that are custodians of people's money will no longer be allowed to use it for stock and real estate speculations; the surplus earnings of business men are very certain to be kept in their business, and a more healthy condition of things seems probable. Winter wheat has improved though the business has been comparatively limited. Our millers have purchased more freely, and are without stocks of moment. The exports of the week are 899,960 bushels, against 608,042 bushels the corresponding time last year; our closing prices show an advance in spring since our last, of 10@11c. bushel, and in winter of 6@8c.

Our flour market the past week has been characterized by much activity and buoyancy, the comparatively moderate arrivals and admitted light stocks, coupled with the rapid advance in wheat and sudden close of the Erie canal, have given holders a marked advantage, and all grades have improved the advance the most marked in shipping extras and fancy brands of Minnesotas, these have been in active request, the former have been purchased freely for the latter part of December and first half of January at $6.60@6.65 ₩ brl, and all low grades have sold readily at the advance quoted. Our stock is very limited, not exceeding 230,000 barrels, or about half the quantity held the corresponding time last year; of grades valued at $7 and under the supply is extremely limited, the advance for the week has not been equal to the improvement in wheat, and now that so large a quantity of the latter has been shut out of market by the sudden closing of the canals many holders decline to sell freely at our extreme prices for shipping extras, but prefer to hold and take the chances of the market. Jobbers and bakers have purchased freely, and with a return of confidence and a resumption of business, which now generally appears probable, we look for a material increase in the consumption and a rapid depletion in our stock. The indications now are that flour will rule high during the winter; this we regard as extremely unfortunate, coming at a time when labor is so poorly rewarded, and business in most branches of trade very dull, but we look for a speedy change in this respect, and consequently a better market for all staple goods. We find our stock of choice winter wheat brands is being reduced daily, and at the current prices for white wheat at the west millers cannot replace this flour at anything like present prices. The prospects now are that we shall have a healthy and legitimate trade, with more uniformity in prices of trade and family grades, and the prices obtained in keeping with their real value. Good superfine has been in brisk demand, in part for export, at advancing prices. The low grades of winter wheat extras have sold more freely and at higher prices. The exports of the week are 26,286 barrels, against 46,595 barrels the corresponding week last year—Tribune.

RIVER NEWS.

State of the Rivers, Movements of Steamboats, &c.

The stage of water last evening was 11 feet and rising rapidly, a rise of 8½ feet within the past 24 hours. It was reported that there were 20 feet at Brownsville, and as there is no doubt but what there will be a rise in the Allegheny also, a good coal boat rise within the next 24 hours is assured.

The Carrie Brooks arrived from Zanesville on Monday night, and departed again last night.

The Shipper's Own, Captain Reyman's new Cumberland River steamer, arrived from Brownsville on Monday night. She will at once commence making engagements for Nashville, although it is not likely she will get out until next week.

The Juniata is announced for Cincinnati, and, as usual, she will receipt passengers and freight through to all points west and south.

Com. Kountz, who was for several weeks in the west and south on business connected with steamboat interests, has returned home.

The Comet is announced for St. Louis, and will be the first through boat out for that point.

The following named towboats among others will depart on this water with tows of coal: Tom Dodsworth, Tiger, Diamond, Joseph Walton, My Choice, Sam Clark, Little Giant, Leopard, Mary Ann, John Hanna, Eagle and Enterprise.

—Tuesday's Cincinnati Gazette says: Capt. J D. Hegler, writing to Captain John Kyle, from a point a short distance above Cairo, and under date the 23d, says: "Met the T. F. Eckert. The steamer Henry Probasco sunk at the foot of the Grand Chain. She lies square across the river. Her upper guard is considerably out of water, say 2 to 4 feet, while the lower guard must be 6 to 8 feet under water. She looked to be broken badly amidships. Think she might be easily raised if the river don't rise too quick." . . The wrecking boat T. F. Eckert returned to Cairo from the Henry Probasco at 10 A. M. yesterday... The Probasco was insured in Wheeling offices, the Etna of Hartford, and in Cincinnati offices... The Alaska was valued at $24,000, and insured for $18,000 in Cincinnati offices... The Arkansas Belle, which arrived at Evansville yesterday, reported the Thompson Dean still aground, and her stern breaking down. She wanted 18 inches more water to float her off. As the Cumberland is rising, no doubt she will be relieved to-day.... The Exchange, which arrived from Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon, has reshipping freight for St. Louis, Memphis, and New Orleans. She returns to-morrow.... A telegram from Paducah yesterday gave information of the death of James S. Miles, clerk of the Lawrence. He died on board the boat Sunday at Paducah of hemorrhage of the lungs, a complaint with which he has been afflicted for a long time. Shippers in the bends above Vicksburg are notified that hereafter, instead of $1.50, the rate on cotton will be $1 per bale. This is the result of competition.... The friends of Oliver Holmes, whose illness was mentioned last week, have been telegraphed for, as he is gradually declining. ...The D. T. Lane was expected from Kanawha, last evening, with a tow of coal...Boats are busily engaged in moving the coal out of the Kanawha.

—The Evansville Journal says: An old scissors grinder named Gesbeth, took deck passage, Thursday morning, on board the Quickstep at Mound City. Yesterday morning when a short distance below Shawneetown, just after having finished grinding some knives for the cook in return for breakfast, he remarked that he was tired of living such a life—that his wife had recently died of yellow fever at Memphis, and immediately threw his carpet sack overboard, and then with his outfit threw himself into the river, and before help could reach him he disappeared beneath the wave. His carpet sack was recovered, and the effects it contained are now on board the Quickstep. Among other articles were a copy of Fontaine's Fables, a pair of moccasins and a picture of a female, and a gold pin and chain attached. He had on his person a large silver watch.

—On the down trip of the Tom Jasper an altercation took place between the messmate and cook of that steamer, which resulted in the stabbing of the latter in the throat, arm and back. The wounded man was taken to the hospital in New Orleans, but no hopes are entertained for his recovery. His assailant was arrested and turned over to the Vicksburg authorities.

—On dit, the Neal Bros. are about to sell one half of the Indiana to J. S. Oglesby, at the rate of $16,000 for the whole boat. Mr. Oglesby is well known as the clerk of the Ruth, Olive Branch and other boats in days gone by, and in case the Indiana is sold, will assume the clerkship of that boat. The Indiana is now lying at New Orleans.

—The snagboat R. E. DeRussey, arrived at Memphis Thursday, from Cairo, and on her way down pulled 98 ugly snags out of the river. She left Memphis Friday for her field of labor between the mouth of the White River and Vicksburg, and will be followed in a few days by the H. S. Long, which will work between Memphis and White River.

—The officers of the Pargoud have notified all shippers in the Bends that after this trip the rate on cotton would be $4 per bale. The former rate was $1.50, and the Pargoud says she is forced to make the advance by reason of competing boats "rebating" to such an extent that there is no fixed rate on cotton, and she proposes to make one and abide by it.

—On the 19th the G. H. Wilson arrived at Dubuque from above with two barges in tow caught fire in her pilot house. Pilot Tom Dolson, of the Gregorie, discovered the fire and gave the alarm in time to save the boat from a destructive conflagration. There was no one on the Wilson but the cook, who had to break a window in the pilot house to reach the fire.

—The Nellie Peck reached Sioux City on the afternoon of the 19th. The Durfee left Yankton 19th for Sioux City. The steamer Hiram Wood was sold on the 2th by the United States Marshal as she lies at Yankton, to Captain Grant Marsh, for $300. She will be raised and converted into a ferryboat.

—The Chas Bodmann left St. Louis for New Orleans Sunday, with all the freight she wanted and 60 or 70 passengers. She took two barges—the Albert and Moffat, the latter chartered from Liebke. The last boat up reported 4½ feet on Horse Tail.

—The formation of a new steamboat line to New Orleans, in progress at St. Louis, is nearly completed, and will embrace most of the large steamers which have heretofore been and are now in the New Orleans trade.

—The Gov. Allen, running in the New Orleans and Natchez trade, has laid up at New Orleans.

—Rates to New Orleans from St. Louis will be advanced to day to 40c on flour, and 30c per 100 for pound freight.

—Captain Robert Good, formerly steamboat hull inspector at Memphis, is now running 'chips' on the steamer G. W. Cheek.

—Heavy ice was floating by Sioux City on the 18th.

—The Peninah and Ida Stockdale are laid up in a good harbor opposite Bismarck.

Thanksgiving in Jail.

As usual on Thanksgiving Day the prisoners in the county jail, will be feasted with turkey and other good things. Rev. J. Dermitt, the chaplain, is making all the arrangements, and desires contributions of edibles from those who may feel disposed to lend a helping hand in this matter. Donations will be received up to ten o'clock Thursday morning, and should be left at the jewelry store of J. R. Reed & Co., on Fifth avenue.

Hymenial.

On last evening Mr. Charles Louis Seib and Miss Ada M. Haines were united in the holy bonds of wedlock, in the Third U. P. Church, on Ridge street, Allegheny. The parties, who are residents of our sister city, are well known and highly respected, and their many friends, a portion of whom witnessed the performance of the ceremony last evening, join in wishing them a safe and happy journey through the tortuous paths of life.

European Steamship Arrivals Yesterday.

A dispatch received at Max Schamberg's European Steamship and Telegraph Office, at No. 163 Smithfield street, announces the arrival of the steamer City of Brooklyn at New York; the steamer Nevada at New York; steamer Goethe at New York; steamer King William at Southampton; steamer Adriatic at Queenstown; steamer City of Brussels at Queenstown; steamer Calabria at Queenstown; steamer Trinacria at Moville.

Extensive Land Slide.

The most extensive land slide which has occurred in Allegheny for some time, occurred yesterday on the Troy Hill road, above Eberhardt's brewery, when about sixty feet of land came down the hill, about six hundred cubic yards, to the road, bringing with it a portion of Mr. Eberhardt's stone wall. The residences of Mr. Samuel Luty and Wm. Chadwick are in immediate danger, as the dirt left these houses free and in a very dangerous condition.

The Boiler Tests.

The following is the result of Saturday's boiler tests as shown by gauges in the bomb-proof on Monday:

Recording hand—American steam gauge No. 44297 stood at 325 pounds. The post gauge No. 4178, recording hand, stood at 325 pounds. The American steam gauge on the boiler stood at 350 pounds.

Following is the result of the test as made by careful examination:

TEST GAUGE.	POST GAUGE.
20 lbs	none.
30 "	20 lbs.
50 "	50 "
75 "	75 "
100 "	100 "
150 "	150 "
200 "	200 "
250 "	250 "
300 "	310 "

When at 400 pounds, the recording hand fell back 60 pounds, and upon a second trial it fell back 80 pounds when relieved of the pressure.

Miss Anna Dickinson at Library Hall.

Last evening every seat in Library Hall was occupied to listen to the lecture which was announced to be delivered by Miss Anna Dickinson. At eight o'clock the orchestra ceased playing and the audience applauded, of course, expecting to see the lady appear upon the platform. But she did not come. Anxiety and impatience was depicted on every feature. The two mingled together on such an interesting occasion was, of course, pleasant to note. Just a little before eight o'clock, a colored man, all out of breath, came rushing to Capt. Herbert, with the greeting—"Look, sah; I want a carriage, sah." "What for?" inquired that gentleman. "'Cause Miss Dickinson, she out Soho, all broke down." This, as may be imagined, made the the Captain feel very uneasy. The carriage was at once procured, but Miss Dickinson fortunately arrived at about half past eight o'clock, just as the carriage sent for her had left. The lecturess had been visiting friends near Soho, and in coming back, about seven o'clock, the vehicle she was riding in broke down, and that caused the lady's delay. Captain Herbert, just previous to Miss Dickinson's appearance, came upon the stage and apologized for the waiting the audience had to undergo, but, he said, the lady had arrived, and would make up for lost time. Miss Dickinson was then introduced by Capt. Herbert. She apologized very gracefully for the detention, and said that she hoped it would prove her only break-down during the evening. She then commenced her lecture by an interesting and terse dissertation on events of the present time. She pictured those who cried for war and work for the laboring classes out of employment, who wanted Cuba annexed to the United States, who saw in a war with Spain a panacea for all our ills financially, that it would give men work, help the poor and do infinite good in general. She wanted to know if those who cried for war were those that would go and do the fighting. She alluded to those who did the work and those who talked but did nothing. She thought we had had war enough. War with all its attendant horrors was not wanted in this country. She looked upon it as something to be dreaded. The lecture throughout was eloquently rendered, and the lady was listened to with great interest and frequently interrupted with applause.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Man Crushed Under the Wheels of His Own Wagon.

On yesterday morning, about half past eight o'clock, a man named John Micheal met a horrible and sudden death near the corner of High street and Fifth avenue. The deceased, who was a driver in the employ of Barton & Co., was engaged in taking a load of planking out the Fifth avenue extension. The load had been on the wagon all night, and in consequence was covered with snow in the morning. In turning the corner of High street and Fifth avenue, the front wheels of the wagon struck the railroad track, causing the hinder portion to whirl around, and Micheal, who was standing on top of the load, was thrown off, his body falling in such a position that the horses in starting suddenly, drew the hind wheels across his head and neck, crushing the skull and killing him instantly. Coroner West was notified and held an inquest, when a verdict of accidental death was rendered. The deceased resided on Butler, near Fortieth street, where he leaves a wife and five children. He was a sober man, fifty-two years of age.

FIRE DEPARTMENT REVIEW.

Parade on Thanksgiving Day—Review by the Commission and Councils.

A review of the Fire Department will take place at half-past two o'clock to-morrow afternoon. The various companies under the direction of Chief White and Assistant Hammil will assemble on Liberty, with the right resting on Hand street, and by countermarch will move down Liberty street to Market, up Market to Fifth, up Fifth to Smithfield, and along Smithfield to Liberty street, and disperse. In front of Municipal Hall the Select and Common Council will review the department. At half past two o'clock the members of the Fire Commission will meet at their rooms and proceed to Liberty street, where they will also review and inspect the different companies. The following is the invitation of the Commission to Councils:

OFFICE OF FIRE COMMISSION,
MUNICIPAL HALL, PITTSBURGH,
November 25, 1873.

Members of the Select and Common Councils of the city of Pittsburgh are respectfully invited to assemble at Municipal Hall on Thursday afternoon, November 27th, at three o'clock, to witness the review of the Fire Department by the Commission.

GEORGE W. WILSON.
President Fire Commission.

FIRE IN A COTTON MILL.

Great Excitement, but Little Damage Done and Nobody Hurt.

On yesterday afternoon about half past three o'clock an alarm of fire was struck from box 56, the Banner Cotton Mills, corner of Sycamore and Main streets, Allegheny. The fire had broken out in the picking room, and threatened disastrously, but the promptness of the firemen saved the building. About $450 damage was done, which is covered fully by insurance. The mill belongs to the Eagle Cotton Mill Company. The fire was caused by a piece of cotton igniting from a hot journal. The firemen experienced great difficulty in fighting the flames, as every time the cotton was stirred it would start up afresh. Some "smarty" locked all the doors as soon as the fire broke out, so that none of the operators could get out, and then refused to allow the firemen in the building. Happily he received a "dousing" which will teach him not to get in the way of hose soon again. The girls in the mill finding the doors locked, became terribly excited and jumped from the second story windows to the ground, some of them making narrow escapes from injury. The fire created great excitement as all the operatives were at work in the mill at the time. The firemen were still at the building at nine o'clock last evening.

COAL OPERATORS.

Meeting of Coal Exchange Yesterday—Reports from Mines.

The regular meeting of the Coal Exchange was held yesterday at the usual place, corner of Market and Water streets, with a large attendance of members. Mr. J. K. Kennedy presided and Mr. A. Lysle acted as secretary. The Committee on Surveys which was appointed at last meeting to ask Councils to have a survey made of the Monongahela river from the Birmingham Suspension Bridge to Lock No. 1, were unable as yet to make a report. The committee was continued. A number of reports were received from members of the exchange in regard to the action of the miners in their employ. Mr. Lysle stated that the miners at his works went out yesterday on a strike, and that to-day they were willing to go to work but that he would not leave them. Mr. Fischer stated that his men were still out of work, and had not as yet accepted the reduction. Mr. Kenney reported that his miners were still out and their works were shut up, and would remain so until the miners accepted the reduction. Mr. Gilmore reported that a meeting was held a few days ago by a number of the employers from Pool No. 3, and stated that several of the works were running at the old price, but this morning learned that they were all stopped. Mr. Schoonmaker reported that Mr. Brown's works in Pool No. 3 had stopped work and would not start again except at the reduced price.

Col. Schoonmaker offered the following:

Resolved, That we reaffirm the motion of November 11, 1873, to adhere to the same, that of mining coal and all outside labor to be reduced 12½ per cent. on and after Nov. 25th.

The resolution was adopted, and the meeting adjourned.

MEETING OF CREDITORS.

Extension Granted to Mayor Blackmore—The Article of Agreement.

A meeting of the creditors of Mayor Blackmore and his partners was held yesterday at the office of C. W. Robb, Esq., on Diamond street. After effecting an organization the following form of an agreement to an extension was read by Mr. Robb:

"The undersigned, through their attorneys, beg leave to submit the following as a basis of settlement and adjustment of the various claims of creditors upon them or either of them. They will, as soon hereafter as requested, make over and convey, by good and sufficient conveyances, to three trustees to be selected and designated by their creditors, all of their real estate of every kind, and character and description whatsoever, and all their personal estate and effects, except household furniture, to be controlled, used and disposed of by the said trustees, in such manner as shall best subserve the interests as well of the creditors as of themselves. Second, that the order in which the real estate so conveyed shall be disposed of by the said trustees shall be in the order of their liability, to wit: First, the real estate of James Blackmore and William Nelson, comprising the firm of Blackmore & Nelson. Second, The real estate of Jas. Blackmore and Wm. Nelson individually. Third, the real estate of the said parties of the first part shall duly be conveyed in the following manner, to-wit: That of Blackmore and Nelson shall not be sold by their consent before twelve months. That of T. J. Blackmore before fifteen months. That of C. L. Graff before eighteen months; and that of Mrs. T. J. Blackmore before eighteen months. Said indebtedness to bear interests at the rate of six per cent. per annum. Fourth, The interest of C. L. Graff, in the firms of Everson, Graff & McCrum, Everson, Knapp & Co., and Brown & Co., is not embraced in this proposition, nor is it to be conveyed as herein before proposed, but it is to be pledged to the trustees herein named, in a manner satisfactory to them, eventually to be disposed of by the trustees above named in order to make good any deficiency. Fifth. That the trustees have power to make an allowance out of the rents and profits of their respective estates to C. L. Graff and J. Blackmore, sufficient to defray their family expenses, and that said trustees shall have authority to pay all necessary expenses of carrying out the trust, under the direction of court and according to law." This agreement not to be construed as a waiver by any creditor of any lien or priority that he now has by judgment or other lien. The trustees herein named to report to the Court of Common Pleas as soon as practicable, a list of debts of the property conveyed to them, to secure the same, and at stated periods of three months to report to said court the condition of the trust, the avails of the property conveyed the trustees, to be distributed after the sale and disposition of all the other real and personal estate herein mentioned. Sixth. This proposition, if accepted, to stay at once all legal proceedings against said parties of the first part. This agreement not to be binding until signed by all the known creditors of the several parties. Seventh. Resolved, That in case a vacancy should occur by death or otherwise in the Board of Trustees at any time, the remaining trustee shall fill the same.

After some discussion the proposition was adopted, and a committee appointed to nominate trustees named Messrs. James H. Hopkins, N. J. Bigley and W. H. Everson.

THE COURTS.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

District Court.

[Before Judge Kirkpatrick.]

The case of Wenzel Bros. and Hudger vs. Albert A. Moore, action on account, which was taken up on Thursday last, was concluded yesterday morning. The Court took charge of the papers in the case, and the points submitted by counsel, and will deliver its charge to the jury this morning.

The next case taken up was that of Barney Demoss & Co. vs. Clark & Adams. This is an action of assumpit, for the non-fulfillment of contract. Defendants are grain merchants doing business in Allegheny city, who, it is claimed by plaintiff, wrote to defendants, who are likewise dealers in grain, carrying on their business in the State of Ohio, inquiring whether or not plaintiffs could furnish them a certain number of bushels of oats at a stated price per bushel. Receiving an affirmative reply, it is claimed by plaintiff that defendants instructed them to purchase the grain, which was done in compliance with defendant's instructions, but which it is claimed was never taken off their hands by defendants. Plaintiffs then sold the same, but for a much less price, as grain had depreciated in value from the contract price agreed upon between the parties, and they now bring suit to recover this difference, being some $238. On trial. J. H. White, Esq., attorney for plaintiff, and A. J. Cochran, Esq., attorney for defendant.

U. S. Circuit Court.

[Before Judge McKennan.]

The case of James Monsey vs. Luther Green is still on trial.

THE CITY BOND MATTER.

The Account With the Nation Trust Company—Meeting of the Water Commission Yesterday Afternoon.

Nothing particularly new was developed yesterday in regard to the jeopardized bonds and money of the Water Commission. The disclosures made in Councils on Monday created considerable excitement, which has in no wise abated, as the matter is the chief topic of conversation in all circles. The precise indebtedness of the Nation Trust Company to the Secretary of the Water Commission, for the proceeds of street and water bonds, is $531,522 75, of this amount $37,272.77 is for proceeds of street bonds, and the balance $494,249.88, the proceeds of water bonds. The account with the Nation Trust Company commenced on the 8th of May, 1873, when there was not the slightest suspicion of anything being wrong with it, or of its perfect solvency. During the time about $96,000 were checked out, and, with other monies, realized from bonds, were turned over to the city. When the panic began, there were proximately $300,000 in the bank belonging to the city. To take out that sum would close up the bank, and on the representations of some of the directors and the cashier, further assistance, it is said, was given the institution. The books of the bank were found to be much mixed after the cashier had left, and upon investigation it was discovered that in the account with Mr. Ross there was only a balance in his favor of $223,000. when the exhibit should have been $531,532 75. An evening contemporary in a reported interview with a director of the Nation Trust Co., whose name, however, is not given, alleges that the director said that there was no record of the bonds placed with that bank for negotiation, and they would not be held responsible for them if it should appear that the bonds had been used for private speculation and not as business of the bank. Mr. Ross states that he holds the receipts of the cashier of the Nation Trust Co. for all the bonds placed in his hands, which fixes the responsibility of the company for the entire amount. The bank book of Mr. Ross shows every deposit made by him, the entry being in the writing of the Cashier. All the bonds delivered were sent by the bank to B. K. Jamison & Co., Philadelphia, who have a full list of their numbers and amounts, and who accounted to the Nation Trust Company for their proceeds. A meeting of the Water Commission was held yesterday afternoon at its rooms in Municipal Hall. The session was both lengthy and secret, and our reporter could learn nothing of the business transacted, but we understood that Mr. Ross made a statement which will in due time be given to the public. The gentlemen present at the meeting were Col. Phillips, City Attorney Bigelow, Mr. Burgwin, Mr. Watson and Mr. Carroll. We were informed by Mr. Bigelow, who declined to make any definite statement, that everything would come out all right. The following is a list of the bonds issued by the city under the Penn avenue act:

Of the above, $25,000 of the Second avenue bonds are locked up in Ira B. McVay & Co.'s suspended bank, and the remaining $25,000 are held by the Fire Association of Philadelphia; $18,000 of the Hiland avenue bonds are registered, as well as all the Pearl street and the Carson, Main and Chestnut street bonds. Of the Jane street, $40,000 went up in Jay Cooke. The Butler and Forbes streets are all sold and registered. The Liberty avenue bonds are sold, and the Ellsworth avenue are fully accounted for; $9,000 of the Stanton avenue are registered, and the Thirty-third street bonds are held by Newvold, Artson & Co., of Philadelphia.

PILFERED PHOTOGRAPHS.

Detective Messner Arrests a Queer Bird—What was Found in his Possession.

Yesterday afternoon as Detective Messner was walking along Penn street he observed a suspicious looking character with a bundle of new clothes under his arm. He followed him to a pawn shop on Sixth street and while the man was in the act of pawning the goods, arrested him. He was taken to the Mayor's office and there denied having stolen the wearing apparel, which consisted of an entire suit of new clothes, but said he got it from a man named George W. Stape who had stolen it in Ohio. On searching his clothes a letter, a large package of photographs and a diary were found in his possession. They, also, he claimed, were the property of Stape. The letter was evidently from a sister, as she reproached him for some crime that he had committed, the nature of which was not given, and said that but for it he might be at home and happy instead of a fugitive from justice. The letter was written from Maytown. The photographs had no doubt been pilfered. They contained the imprint of artists in various small towns in different sections of the State. Some of them bore the name "E. A. Lingo, Uniontown, Pa." The photo's were nearly all of young ladies. The owner of this miscellaneous assortment of goods had evidently been at an entertainment of some kind in Skiles' Hall, at Uniontown, as on the back of an invitation, was written a request that he might have the pleasure of escorting a certain young lady home and keeping company with her. The diary was the funniest of all, as it contained some very queer entries, such as the following: "Sep. 3d. Went to see Ellen ——" "Sep. 5. Took Sarah home from church tonight." "Sep. 8. Kept company with Jennie for the last time." The prisoner gave his name at one time as Brown, and at another as Campbell. He was placed in the Central Station house and will have a hearing this morning. The detectives gobbled a queer bird when they captured him.

DISTRESSING FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Boy Thrown Over a Fearful Precipice and Killed.

The Oil City Derrick gives the following particulars of a distressing accident which occurred at Rouseville, on Saturday last: "It appears that a farmer named Frankenbeyer, who lives in the vicinity of Dempseytown, was on his way to Rouseville with his little son, a lad of nine years, on the day mentioned. He drove a blind horse attached to a single wagon, and reached the high bank in front of Wesley Chambers' residence in safety. At this point the horse took fright at the noise made by a man attempting to drive a cow in the opposite direction. The horse jumped off the road and in another moment tumbled over the precipice, dragging the vehicle after him. The father jumped out before reaching the embankment, escaping with trifling injuries. But the poor boy was thrown down the dizzy incline to the railway track, sixty feet below, sustaining dreadful injuries and having his back broken. The little sufferer was quickly conveyed to the house of W. W. Hawkins and medical assistance summoned. All efforts of the attending physicians were fruitless, and at half past six o'clock, three hours after the accident, death came to his relief. The family has been sorely afflicted, this making the ninth child that has been removed, leaving only one young girl behind to cheer the stricken parents."

AMUSEMENTS.

PITTSBURGH OPERA HOUSE.—Last evening a fair sized audience was present to witness the second performance of the "Sea of Ice." Miss Charlotte Thompson as "Louise de Lascours," and as "Ogarita" of course, was the central figure of attraction. Her acting last night was superb. Mr. I. N. Gotthold as "Carlo" and "Marquis de Monte" was also really excellent. This gentleman is a wonderful artist, being able to assume almost any character, and giving it a studied and interesting interpretation. Mr. J. P. Delmer, though new to our public, is rapidly gaining public favor, as he is a conscientious and painstaking artist. Mr. Irving as the "Sailor" was greeted with much laughter and applause, his droll and witty sayings, as well as his by-play, being appreciated by the audience. Mr. Stockwell as the "Armorer" and little Hattie Irving as "Marie" were both good and received a fair share of applause. The "Sea of Ice" will be repeated to-night.

REMARKS ON THE WEATHER.

Record from October 19th to November 19th—Indications for the Month Ending December 19th—The Coming Winter.

Record from the 19th of October to the 19th of November.—Cloudy and variable days, sixteen; rain, ten; snow, two; clear and fair, thirteen. Daily averages thermometer, 42; of the river, 7½ feet; rain fell, 2 30-100 feet; maximum 61; minumum 33.

Indications.—From 19th of November to 19th of December, cloudy variable days, twenty-five; of rain and snow, nineteen; clear sunshine, five. A stormy month, with plenty of water for the river.

The past season has been so erratic and chequered in its aspect, in the different sections, being very dry in May and June in all parts, and continued so in the West and North West States, as almost to produce a famine in one of them, that it is difficult to form an opinion what will be the character of the coming winter. Since August the Middle and Northern states have been so refreshed with storms, although disastrous on the sea, as to recuperate and render vegetation productive.

The indications of the coming winter are contradictory. In this region the indications would point to a severe and not a mild winter. To counteract this the foliage has been summarily cut off by frost, which presumes a mild winter, as well as there being snow and hard freezing in early November, which usually precedes a mild January and February. When the foliage exists until the 20th to 30th of November and dies a natural death, a severe winter succeeds it. By report the birds and brutes of the West are not preparing for a severe winter, the birds not going South. Where reason is not given, instinct occupies the space.

The indications for this locality, are for a severe winter. If the winter should prove to be as mild as that of 1827 and 1828, or 1857 and 1858, the chances for a pestilence or sickly season, and a bad crop, are very encouraging, in a more injurious form than any one heretofore, as our cities and towns population has increased, contrary to sound wisdom, and that by covetousness, which is idolatry. Disasters and judgments have existed from the fall of Adam and increase as time goes on, but we have become so accustomed to them, we do not examine and look back upon them. We are onward on Satan's side and not Godward on God's side. It would be well for the people of this nation to read the words of Christ in the 24th chapter of Matthew and 21st chapter of St. Luke. Yet all those things are transpiring and will be worse to the end of time. This nation is now in a peculiar position, and instead of penitence, they are promising to do better, if they can only retain their idols, and get into light, and they will do better. There never was a pestilence, famine, disaster of financial crisis, upon the nation, but what they resolved to act more wisely; yet there never was one who experienced these judgments but when light came, they became more wicked. Judgments and disasters increase in the same ratio, as man rejects Divine Wisdom and relies upon his own. No country is richer by nature and art than these States, yet by abuse and perversion, we are helpless, tied up, disqualified, by our pride, covetousness and ambition.

Let no one plaster over this sore, and flatter himself it is of a temporary duration, but prepare for the worst. This has struck the two extreme ends of society—the millionaire and the laboring and weaker man—and who have been the occasion, not the cause, of this state of things, and the searching operation is penetrating into the vitals, until it reaches every rotten place. The next operation will be the foreclosing of mortgages, and satisfaction of judgments, when not only every material, but real estate will be brought below its intrinsic value, before it acquires a healthy value. Revolution in South America, in Spain, France, and Italy, and the Pope's power unsettled; famine in America, Russia, Greenland and East Indies, experiencing it, just as Persia has emerged from it. The civilized world is in a babel state, neither understanding nor having confidence in each other. Even down to your Councils, nothing can be presented for the general good, but what antagonism and recrimination is the ruling passion, from unadulterated selfishness.

I am aware this kind of reasoning is unfashionable and distasteful. Even many of the religious papers are weary of publishing such articles. They are so cautious that they may disturb a world in carnal ease, that it may produce a prejudicial feeling and affect their interests. But one warning of Holy Writ is applicable to all—"He that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." G. A.

MW&F HUGHES & HACKE,
Fifth avenue and Market street.

Neither Visionary Nor Delusive.

The great sale of China, Glass and Queensware which has been in progress for some days at the very extensive establishment of Messrs. Sands & Reineman, No. 29 Fifth avenue, is a regular bona fide sale of the entire stock in order to a change of business, and in several respects is without a parallel in the history of such sales in our city. First, in respect to the immense stock on hand, it being unprecedently large and superlatively fine. Second, in regard to the unusually low rates at which the goods are offered, being less than one-half the usual rates. The goods were purchased at half price and will be sold on the same liberal terms. We have neither time nor space to enumerate the one-hundredth part of their extraordinary large stock, but purchasers will find a great variety of Table Cutlery, Wooden and Willow Ware, plain and Japanned Tinware, Britannia and Silver-plated Ware and Walnut goods of every description. This is a golden opportunity to secure holiday gifts at nominal figures, and beautify the home with ornamental goods which are here in endless profusion.

A Safe Institution.

A safe place to put your savings is in the Germania Savings Bank, No. 65 Fourth avenue. This institution is so judiciously and economically managed, that both stockholders and depositors feel a pride in being connected with the bank. Meyran, through whose urbane manner and thorough business qualities the bank has won many staunch and influential friends. Mr. C. M. Seibert, the Secretary and Treasurer, is an efficient business man, who understands how to keep everything in good shape. The Board of Directors include some of our staunchest business men, who for probity and enterprise stand second to none in the city.

ANOTHER LAMP HORROR.

Lamp Explosion.

[From Pittsburgh Dispatch, Nov. 24.]

A lamp explosion occurred at the house of Thomas Lyles, Benton alley, Allegheny, Saturday night—which but for the timely appearance and self-possession of Mrs. Lyles, would have resulted in the destruction of the premises. The lamp was placed on a bracket in one of the first floor rooms, and during the absence of Mrs. L. upstairs, exploded. The damage done amounted to about $100. Mrs. Lyles was quite severely burned on the arms and hands. Mrs. Lyles, tried to get ELAINE, from her grocer, as she had heard of its safety, but could not, and bought Carbon Oil. She now burns ELAINE, The Safety Guard Oil. No money could induce her to use Carbon Oil, as generally sold by store keepers. Ask your grocer for ELAINE and take nothing else.

Flowers.

Probably, among all the productions of nature, nothing can be named more pleasing to the eye than the flowers of the garden, field or greenhouse. Nothing so embellishes and beautifies the valley or the hillside as the flowers which a bountiful nature so prodigally mingles with the coarser verdure of prairie and forest. These reflections are suggested by a boquet, kindly sent us by the famous florists and seedmen Messrs. J. R. & A. Murdock, 112 Smithfield street. We have many times had our senses of sight and smell regaled by the beauty and fragrance of nature or exotic flowers, but have never had our admiration challenged with more emphasis than by this beautiful boquet, beautiful in bloom and tint, lovely in fragrance and unique in design and arrangement. The Murdocks achieve their greatest triumphs in the artistic taste and skill peculiar to them, by which they render beauty more beautiful and make art a helpful handmaid of nature, and thus compelling our admiration of both.

PERNICIOUS PURGATIVES.

The brilliant idea of half a century ago that the weak and ailing could be bled, blistered and salivated into a condition of health and vigor is happily exploded; but violent and prolonged purgation is still, to some extent, in vogue. We have imposters who are daring enough to offer to the world, as tonics and restoratives, the most destructive cathartics, unmodified by a single stimulating, soothing or restorative element. Compare the operation of one of these terrible nostrums with that of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in which are combined the three great curative elements—a tonic, an alterative, and an aperient. The former completely paralyzes the vital forces, so that nature can make no resistance to disease; the latter sustains the strength of the patient, while it restores the suspended functions of the secretory organs and relieves the bowels without violence or pain. It is simply a choice between restoration and prostration.
